Dear Sir:

We have made an examination of the books and accounts of the various Flour Milling Companies composing the United States Flour Milling Company, for the periods for which they have been operated under their separate managements, and we hereby certify that, after charging all manufacturing and trading expenses, together with maintenance and repairs to plants, &c., and all expenses pertaining to the business, we find the aggregate average annual net profit to be $922,873.30. The detailed figures showing the above results we enclose.
